

GOLDEN CRAB

The golden crab (Chaceon fenneri) is a commercially important species found along the U.S. Atlantic coast and into the Gulf of Mexico. Golden crabs are most abundant among rock ledges, where they eat animals such as worms and mollusks.

<https://oceanexplorer.noaa.gov> | Share your art! #WorldOceanArt

Ocean Exploration and Research